Maersk to Recover from Cyber Attack Over Coming Weeks

Three days after a cyber attack disrupted Danish carrier A.P. Moller-Maersk's global operations, the company has reported that its systems are being recovered, with most of the 17 affected terminals back in operation (check <http://www.maersk.com/operationalupdate> to see specific gates) and bookings re-opened for EDI, INTRA, and online portal.

The worm behind the attack has also compromised other companies in transportation, pharmaceutical, and energy sectors, according to news sources.
