

© apirati333 — stock.adobe.com

Mumbai To Recover from Monsoon Downpour as Early as Tomorrow

Over the past day, Mumbai has received torrential rainfall due to the onset of monsoon season, which has led to airport shutdowns and rail closures. Although what has been labeled as the “worst monsoon in years” wreaked havoc on communities across South Asia yesterday, weather conditions are dissipating. In fact, Chhatrapati Shivaji International Airport (CSIA) resumed normal operations today, and some airport officials say that traffic is expected to resume on Thursday. The monsoon is predicted to travel to Sindh, Pakistan, according to news sources.

KWE India’s Mumbai office has remained closed for the day, and is slated to resume normal operations tomorrow.

For pressing inquiries and updates, please reach your local KWE branch for information.

Disclaimer: The subject matter of this newsletter is provided for informational purposes only. All data is obtained from public sources and is believed to be true and accurate. KWE is not responsible or liable for any inaccurate information contained herein.